Let me use this sentimental song named "Travelling" (from one of my favorite singers - Xu Wei ) to start the new year's first post.

The song was repeatedly played in my car when I was driving Melissa down to Heathrow airport. The more I sang with the song, the more unwillingness I felt to let her go.

She came over from Hong Kong to Sheffield for Christmas holiday with me. We spent really wonderful days driving and shopping around. Also had very good time at friend's home. But in the end, there was farewell to face.

Life is like travelling. I only hope on this long way, we will always be together.
